

MacArthur Calls For Policy To Stop Pointless Slaughter Of America's Sons In Korea

CHICAGO — (AP)—Gen. MacArthur headed for Milwaukee and another huge civic celebration today after a Chicago demonstration climaxed by his speech defending his policy in Korea.

MacArthur, dismissed from his Far Eastern command two weeks ago by President Truman, in a fighting speech last night, called for a "positive and realistic" Korean policy "to stop through strength this slaughter of America's sons."

Big Day In Milwaukee
Milwaukee planned a huge reception for the five-star general. Some 700,000 persons from all parts of Wisconsin were ready to greet MacArthur, who still claims Milwaukee his home town.

The MacArthur party left the Stevens hotel at 7:33 a. m. after a crowd of some 1,800 persons milled about them offering congratulations and good wishes.

The general rode in the lead car of a motorcade which drove along the North Shore to the Wisconsin city. In the car with the general were Mayor Martin H. Kennelly and Maj. Gen. Courtney Whitney.

Arthur and Mrs. MacArthur rode in another car.

On the three-hour auto trip, the general planned brief stops at Fort Sheridan and the Great Lakes Naval training center. He planned no speeches.

Noisiest In History
His speech last night in Soldier field highlighted the biggest and noisiest celebration in Chicago's history.

It climaxed his rousing welcome to Chicago, whose millions had cheered and acclaimed him yesterday afternoon during a 23-mile ride from the Midway Airport to the loop.

Defending his policy in Korea, MacArthur told the Soldier field throng:

"Our losses there (Korea) in ratio to the men committed have already reached staggering proportions," MacArthur declared. "These losses are progressively mounting by thousands each month."

The crowd in the huge lake front stadium—estimated at some 50,000—interrupted the General several times during his speech, cheering and applauding.

Audience Surprised
MacArthur's address, which had been billed as "not a major policy talk," caught his audience by surprise.

It was a fighting speech all the way. And the General, in his 12-minute talk, declared "That al-

Truman's Farm Parity Freeze Plan Draws Barrage Of Protests

By MARVIN L. ARROWSMITH

WASHINGTON — (AP)—President Truman's proposal to freeze farm parity by the year as a means of tightening food price controls collided with a barrage of farm state opposition in Congress today.

On the other hand, Senator Anderson (D-NM), former Secretary of Agriculture, declared the plan looks all right to him and "might be perfectly satisfactory to farmers."

"Will Get Nowhere"
From the protest corner, however, Chairman Maybank (D-SC) of the Senate Banking committee came up with this prediction: "The parity freeze idea definitely will get no place in Congress."

Maybank's committee and the House banking group will pass on Mr. Truman's parity-inflation and general mobilization program, which he outlined to Congress in a special message yesterday.

The President asked for revision and extension of the present defense production act, which expires June 30. The measure includes wage-price control authority, and the administration wants to bracket into it a broadened rent control program—now covered by a separate law. It, too, expires at the end of June.

Mr. Truman again urged quick action on a separate administration bill to increase taxes $10,000,000,000 as "the most important step of all" toward bringing "the rise in prices and the cost of living to a halt—and hold the line." That, with the other measures he recommended, the President said, is "an anti-inflation program that will work." He added:

"The world situation could explode at any time, and we must make every day count."

Mr. Truman's food price plans appeared to have touched off the sharpest controversy at the capitol, but some of his other proposals also stirred disputes.

For example, lawmakers generally called for a long look at the President's request for authority to let the government build defense plants when private industry is unable or unwilling to do so. In the past, in peacetime, Congress has refused to grant plant construction authority to the government.

On the tax hike idea Mr. Truman appeared to have plenty of support in Congress, but whether action on the legislation would be speeded remained to be seen. The bill still is before the House Ways and Means committee on the first leg of its journey.

Churchill Will Not Visit U. S. A.

Trip Cancelled Due To London Crisis
LONDON — (AP)—Winston Churchill cancelled a planned trip to the United States today because of the British government crisis.

The Conservative opposition leader and wartime prime minister said in a letter to Harold E. Stassen, president of the University of Pennsylvania, that "events have happened which make it difficult for me" to speak at the University May 8.

Churchill apparently was referring to the upheaval in the labor government cabinet which many observers feel opens the possibility of a general election.

Gasoline Explosion Threatens Troy, O.

TROY, O. — (AP)—Two huge storage tanks exploded today, and flames threatened a three-block industrial area before the fire was brought partially under control.

A residence, truck garage and storage building were destroyed. An office building and warehouse were still burning.

The explosions occurred in a 12,000-gallon tank and a 20,000-gallon tank of the Sinclair bulk gasoline station. The blasts jarred residents of this town of 10,620 population out of their beds and broke many windows. No one was reported injured.

Troy is 20 miles north of Dayton, O.

Four Political Prisoner Camps Sought In U. S.

Agents List 14,000 Subversive Suspects

By HARRY SNYDER

WASHINGTON — (AP)—Congress is weighing a proposal to prepare four detention camps for 14,000 political prisoners in case of a general war.

James V. Bennett, federal prison director, recommended to the House appropriations committee that $775,000 be put up to prepare four abandoned military camps for use by suspected subversives in the event of war.

Threat To Security
Bennett testified recently in support of his agency's request for funds. The committee made the testimony public today.

The recommendation came on the heels of testimony by FBI Director J. Edgar Hoover and Assistant Attorney General James M. McInerney. They said the justice department has a line on 14,000 persons "already denominated as being a threat to internal security in the event of a national emergency."

The suspects have been "thoroughly investigated," they said, and could be taken into custody under the provisions of the internal security act within a few hours.

Sites Lined Up
Bennett told the committee, however, the law requires that political prisoners be kept separate from criminal convicts.

For this reason, he said, he had lined up camps not now in use which could be rehabilitated with regular prison labor and then kept in a stand-by condition.

He recommended it as an economy move, saying the replacement of proposed facilities would cost around $400,000.

Hoover told the committee that subversive activities of the Com-

Williams Request Cut Down To One Third

LANSING — (AP)—A house sub-committee believes the state civil defense program can get by on about a third of the money Governor Williams said it needed.

Rep. Harry J. Phillips (R-Port Huron), chairman of the sub-committee, introduced a bill calling for an expenditure of $2,301,500 for the purpose.

Yesterday, the governor asked for $6,681,050.

The committee made two major cuts, Phillips said. First, it dropped a recommendation for the purchase of 250 heavy fire trucks to cost $10,000 each. Substituted was a provision to permit cities to match federal money to buy their own trucks.

Second, all remaining expenditures were cut to a seven months' basis instead of the 12 months recommended by the governor. The bill will cover the civil defense activities starting July 1.

Phillips said the legislature will be back in session before the seven months are over and can take care of future expenditures then.

Phillips said that the committee's bill had the approval of Brig. Gen. Lester J. Maitland, state civil defense chief.

Raise Approved For Lawmakers

House Votes Boost Of $1,600 A Year

LANSING — (AP)—A $1,600 annual increase in salaries and expenses for legislators was approved over some objections in the House yesterday.

The chamber voted 55-29 to set salaries starting in 1953 at $3,600 a year instead of the present $2,400 and expense accounts at $900 instead of $500.

Opponents said the increase would be an abuse of the "blank check" the people gave the legislature in 1948 by removing constitutional limitations on legislative compensation.

Rep. Hugo A. Nelson (R-Indian River) said the bill "increases our salaries beyond reason."

Rep. Michael J. O'Brien (D-Detroit) said he believed legislators should be paid at least as much as pages in the House, bricklayers and factory workers.

The increase will attract more competition for legislative seats, said Rep. Louis A. Cramton (R-Lapeer), "and that is a good thing."

A bill to force cities of over 5,000 to limit their policemen's work weeks to 40 hours was beaten in the House by three votes. A measure to limit city firemen to 63½ hours a week was defeated yesterday.

Old Suitcase Found In Manistee Attic Yields $11,895 Cash

MANISTEE — (AP)—A battered old suitcase found in the home of the late Harry Goldman, 79-year-old junk and antique dealer, turned out to contain $11,895 cash.

The cache was found yesterday by Vernon Gamache, administrator of the Goldman estate. Gamache also found a $1,000 diamond ring, other jewelry and a collection of old coins.

Goldman had lived as a recluse since the death of his wife in 1943.

Abner Goldman, a nephew employed by a Bay City jewelry store, is believed to be Goldman's only heir. The junk dealer died Feb. 4.

Philippine Troops Kill 30 Red Huks

MANILA — (AP)—A band of 30 Communist Huks, including some women and children, were trapped and slain by Philippine army troops last night, the government reported today.

The national defense department said the troops caught the rebels near the Ipo dam, 20 miles northeast of Manila. The troops' dispatch said several women and children were found among the dead.

Part-Way Controls Blamed By Packers For Meat Shortage

(By The Associated Press)

Meat shortages are springing up in many areas throughout the country, and most packers are putting the blame on "part-way" price controls.

The packers queried in an Associated Press survey largely blamed the sporadic but ominous shortages on the fact that livestock prices were allowed to rise after the government-ordered price freeze put ceilings on meat.

They pointed out, however, that the ceilings vary.

Price Way Up
For instance, they said, small processors with higher ceilings have been able to buy away animals from the big packers. Such a development has nudged meat supplies out of normal channels in many areas and has forced retailers to get their meat from other sources and usually at higher prices.

Meat industry spokesmen claimed that's how black markets develop.

Housewives have complained that they can get varied meat cuts only from high-priced specialty shops, leading to the bitter phrase:

"There's plenty of meat—if you can pay enough."

Some slaughterers and packers, assertedly caught in the ceiling squeeze, have been forced to curtail or stop operations. Many buy just enough to keep their plants running, often at a loss. Others have given workers early vacations.

Low-priced meat has tended to disappear from many competitive stores which are required to abide by low retail ceilings.

Also feeling the bulk low-price meat shortage in many areas are hospitals and other institutions. Government price regulations stipulate, such institutions should get priority, but many suppliers have stopped offering them at all.

An (AP) survey of large dealers in 15 cities revealed

Beef and veal supplies below normal to very tight in New York, Los Angeles, New Orleans, Chicago, Charlotte, N. C., Richmond, Boston, New Haven, Conn., and Baltimore.

Adequate supplies (except lamb) were reported in Detroit, Atlanta, San Francisco, St. Louis, Kansas City and Dallas.

Lamb is scarce almost everywhere—partly a seasonal condition before spring lambs are sent to market.

Pork and poultry appear to be in normal supply everywhere.

Funds Slashed For 27 Agencies

Budget Of VA Cut By $483,378,855

WASHINGTON — (AP)—The 1952 budget of 27 federal agencies was slashed 10 per cent—$665,900,025—today by the House appropriations committee.

The committee recommended that the House give the agencies $6,171,777,440 for the fiscal year starting next July. President Truman had asked $6,837,677,465; the same agencies got $11,932,720,332 for the present year.

The funds are for the so-called "independent offices" whose finances are lumped in a single bill. Almost all of them were cut, including the atomic energy commission and the veterans' administration.

The committee's action is subject to alteration by the House when it considers the bill next week.

The cut was the largest on any of four regular departmental bills sent to the House this year.

For the veterans' administration, the allotment was $3,971,944,145, a budget cut of $483,378,855. Heavy reductions were in funds for readjustment benefits and pensions, due mainly to a tapering off in the education program for vets.

Allies Give Up Last Hold In North Korea

Enemy Drives Troops On To Slaughter

TOKYO — (AP)—United Nations troops fell back on both ends of the 100-mile Korean front today.

In the west they rolled back through Uijongbu, 11 miles north of Seoul.

In the east they abandoned Yanggu and pulled back below the 38th parallel. This was the last Allied hold in Red Korea on the active fight front.

Halt At Han River
In both withdrawals U. N. forces broke contact with Reds. The Allies also broke contact south of Hwachon reservoir, and withdrew so rapidly a vast no-man's land was created on this east-central sector.

Little contact was reported all along the front. But U. N. troops beat back attacks in the center aimed at roads leading to Seoul.

And in the extreme west, Allied forces fought a stubborn delaying action 14 miles northwest of Seoul.

On the northern approaches the Chinese were about 10 miles from the old South Korean capital.

But Lt. Gen. James A. Van Fleet, U. S. Eighth Army commander, expressed confidence they could be halted north of the Han river.

The Han borders Seoul on the south.

Drive Weakens
However, the general did not mention the war shattered city in his statement.

"We are withdrawing in order," Van Fleet said on an unheralded frontline tour. "We are keeping units intact. We are taking a tremendous toll of the enemy while enduring only minimum losses."

As the Reds neared Seoul, civilians streamed out of the city to the south. A South Korean government spokesman said 200,000 had already fled across the Han.

It was a familiar flight. Communist troops twice have occupied and twice abandoned Seoul.

Three More Witnesses Called In Norton Case

Two of John P. Norton's relatives by marriage and a nurse are recent witnesses called by the estate of John Norton's will at a jury hearing continuing today before Judge Glenn W. Jackson in circuit court.

The contestants, Mack and Charles Norton, brothers, and Thomas Norton, nephew of John Norton, claim the will is invalid.

They object to the will that left legacies to the three contestants and the bulk of the Norton estate to the Escanaba school district for scholarships on grounds that John Norton was mentally incompetent and was subjected to undue influence and fraud.

Nelson On Stand
Supporting their claims was testimony by the three latest witnesses. They are:

Mrs. Genevieve Harrison, Detroit, sister-in-law of John Norton; Mrs. Esther Pearson, Escanaba, a nurse who cared for Mr. and Mrs. John Norton; and Harry C. Nelson, Escanaba, brother-in-law of the late Mrs. John Norton.

Nelson continued on the witness stand this afternoon. Testifying that he had known John Norton for 45 years before Norton's death on July 12, 1950, Nelson said that prior to a stroke in 1945 Norton was friendly, hospitable, active in business and politics.

Mrs. Norton Angry
After 1945 and the stroke John Norton was not active in local affairs, Nelson said.

In the fall of 1949 Nelson testified that John Norton told him that he, Norton, could read but could not understand or recall what he had read.

About 10 days before Christmas, 1949, Nelson said he went to the Norton home and found Mr. and Mrs. Norton sitting in the sun parlor. Mrs. Norton was angry, Nelson said, because she had learned "they are putting a radio station up near the fair grounds."

Judge Jackson asked Mr. Nelson if the conversation occurred within the hearing of Mr. Norton and if Mr. Norton did not have "difficulty with his hearing."

Describes Conversation
Nelson described John Norton's hearing as "very slightly" impaired.

Nelson then quoted Mrs. Norton as saying of Mr. Norton: "That old fool there doesn't understand what it's all about and must think we're made of money."

John Norton "just looked straight ahead and said nothing," Nelson testified.

Earlier today Mrs. Esther Pearson, the Escanaba nurse, told in direct examination by counsel for the contestants of the will, that she had gone to the Norton home as a nurse on Oct. 25, 1949, and continued there until Jan. 8. She returned March 6, 1950, and stayed until Mr. Norton's death July 12.

Nurse Was Overpaid
Mrs. Pearson said she was paid $35 a week and received her pay on Saturdays. On two occasions, she testified, Mr. Norton counted out more money than she was to receive and she made the correct change for him. Three successive days before she left on Jan. 8, she said, Mr. Norton gave her gifts of money and when she reminded him that he had given her money the day before he said, "I did?"

In cross-examination by counsel for Atty. James E. Frost, special administrator of the John Norton estate and proponent in defense of the will, Mrs. Pearson admitted that within recent days she had seen and lunched and dined with Mack and Charles Norton and their counsel, Atty. Phillip Hadsell of Niles, Mich., who are now in Escanaba for the trial. Atty. Hadsell volunteered information to the court that they were invited to the Pearsons for a fish fry after a smelting trip.

Conclusion Ruled Out
Late yesterday afternoon Judge Jackson upheld an objection by proponents of the will on a point of law and would not permit Mrs. Genevieve Harrison to give her conclusion on the mental capabilities of John Norton. The court's ruling was similar to that of the day before in the case of another sister-in-law witness, Mrs. K. C. Fellow.

Mrs. Harrison followed Mrs. Fellow to the stand shortly after noon yesterday. Testifying she had known John Norton for 45 years, Mrs. Harrison said John Norton told her in 1949, "I can't think." She described Norton as an untidy cigarette smoker and so careless in dress that she had to pull down the upstairs shades in the Norton home.

Said "Losing My Mind"
In 1947 after returning from a trip to the Escanaba Chamber of Commerce office, Mrs. Harrison said Norton told her: "I'm losing my mind, Gen. They told me I had gone and signed it the day before and I have no recollection of it."

Late in 1947 John Norton told her that his wife was "angry over the auto" and that "she said she was going to have a guardian appointed for me and have me put in an asylum," Mrs. Harrison testified.

On Dec. 31, 1949, while Mrs. Harrison was staying at the Norton home after the death of Mrs. Norton, she said Mr. Norton answered the telephone; that she heard him say "yes" three times; and that after he had hung up the receiver he told Mrs. Harrison "that was Frost. He wants me to make a new will."

Gave Them Fur Coats
She testified further that Atty. Frost came to the Norton home Jan. 3 and she went upstairs. On Jan. 5, 1950, the day the will was signed, she saw Atty. Frost and William J. Schmitt and Hubert Sheppard come to the house.

On Jan. 6, 1950, she testified, Norton told Mrs. Harrison and Mrs. Fellow that he had made a new will, that he had "left something" to Charles and Mack and Tom Norton and "money in Ann's memory to the schools in Escanaba."

Norton also told her, she testified, that he "was taking care of Helen's education." Helen and Carroll Harrison are daughters of Mrs. Harrison.

After Mrs. John Norton's death, John Norton gave Mrs. Harrison a car coat and Mrs. Fellow a Persian lamb coat, she testified.

Checks In Evidence
In a telephone conversation with her in March or April Mrs. Harrison quoted Norton as saying "I'm leaving each of the girls $10,000." She said this referred to her two daughters. About that time Norton also told her he had bought a new car but did not know its make, she said.

In cross-examination this morning Mrs. Harrison said she had never received any money from John Norton. She agreed that Mr. and Mrs. John Norton had been kind and generous to a number of persons during their lifetime and that Mrs. Norton had taught for many years in Escanaba and Gladstone schools.

Atty. Denis McGinn, counsel for proponents in defense of the will, introduced as evidence eleven checks totaling several hundred dollars made payable to Mrs. Harrison and her two daughters. Most of the checks were to Helen Harrison to pay for her college education, Mrs. Harrison said in identifying the checks. Others were to her in payment of expenses in Escanaba and Rochester where she attended Mrs. Norton in 1949.

Norton Letters
Two checks were to the daughters before Christmas, 1949. Mrs. Harrison also said that John Norton had paid premiums on endowment policies for her daughters.

Copies of letters received by Mrs. Harrison or her daughters were introduced in evidence and read to the jury by Atty. McGinn. Most of the letters were accompanied by checks and these were referred to in the letters.

The letters were copies and without signature. Atty. McGinn said that Miss Ellen Johnson of the Daily Press business office, will be called as witness for the proponents of the will to verify that Norton dictated the letters to her.

Two Counties Stay On CST

Most Of U. P. Will Be On Fast Time

Practically all of the Upper Peninsula will be on Eastern Standard Time next month.

At present, Delta and nine other counties in Upper Michigan, as well as all of the 68 counties in lower Michigan, are on Eastern Standard Time all year round.

However, three U. P. counties will switch to daylight saving time next Sunday morning, April 29, which will leave only two counties in the entire state on Central Standard Time this summer.

Menominee, Gogebic On CST
Menominee and Gogebic counties, which have considerable business carried on in Wisconsin, where Central Standard Time is official all year around, are on "slow" time all year round. The respective nearby cities of Marinette and Hurley, Wis., have much to do with those two counties remaining on CST.

Three counties, Dickinson, Iron and Ontonagon, will change over from CST to "fast" time next Sunday morning. They'll remain in conformity with the vast majority of Michigan until Sunday morning, Sept. 30, when they'll revert to CST, or "slow," time.

Until 1949, Marquette county also shifted over to CST during the winter months. That year, however, a referendum was held and EST was adopted by an overwhelming margin.

Conformity Sought
Other counties in Upper Michigan with EST all year round are Alger, Baraga, Houghton, Keweenaw, Chippewa, Mackinac, Schoolcraft, Luce and Delta.

Thus, a business man or tourist from the Delta area or the Copper Country to Detroit in any month of the year does not have to worry about changing his watch.

But, travelers or those who have to periodically do business in Dickinson, Ontonagon, Iron, Menominee or Gogebic counties are very apt to become confused over the time changes.

To remedy this needless situation, various attempts have been made to have all the counties in the U. P. adopt a uniform time.

EST Trend Noted
Until a few years ago, over half the counties in the Peninsula were on "slow" time at least part of the year. This percentage has been changed to a point where now exactly two-thirds of the U. P. counties are on EST all year round, and only two of the 15 are on CST all year.

This gradual tendency toward EST gives many authorities in the U. P. the hope that some day in the not too distant future all of the Peninsula will be on EST all year round.

In Menominee, for example, "daylight saving" time for the summer months was rejected by a narrow margin of 1,181 to 1,137 in a referendum held earlier this month.

In a county-wide referendum held in that city in 1947, the vote was 1,437 to 826 against EST. If that trend continues, it appears that Menominee, too, will be on EST during the summer months in not many years hence.

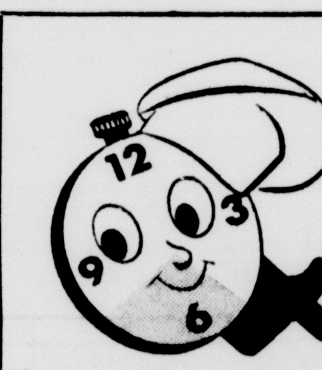

Hermansville Goes On Fast Time
HERMANSVILLE — Meyer Township, which includes the community of Hermansville, will go on daylight saving time effective at 2 a. m. Sunday, April 29, it was announced today by Supervisor Roy Johnson. The change in time, Johnson said, is designed to keep on the same schedule as Iron Mountain, Kingsford and Norway.

Tribute Is Paid To John Norton

Memorial Services At ANPA Meeting

NEW YORK (ICN)—A solemn tribute honoring the memory of John P. Norton, late of the Escanaba Daily Press, was paid here Thursday by the nation's foremost newspaper executives members of the American Newspaper Publishers association, meeting in 65th annual session at the Waldorf-Astoria hotel. The memorial will be permanently inscribed in the organization's records.

As the delegates rose to their feet, Edwin S. Friendly, retiring president of the national association brought to the assemblage the name of John P. Norton and others "long identified with leadership in their communities, lost to us by since we last met together."

Reading from the necrology of the memorial committee of the ANPA, Mr. Friendly said, "We pause now in our deliberations to give thought to those who are no longer with us. It is fitting that we should do so because these men have in the past faced the same problems that we face now and through their brilliance of mind and steadfastness of principle have found a solution."

"The newspaper profession is a great and proud one. Men in that profession face the world with pride that comes from the knowledge that they are carrying on those standards and those principles envisioned by our

A five per cent cost of living bonus was granted to the Delta-Menominee health department personnel. This raise does not affect the three school nurses, who are paid by their respective boards of education.

The Delta-Menominee board received a proposal from the Alger-Schoolcraft board to consolidate into a four-county health unit. No action was taken on the suggestion.

forefathers who founded this democracy. "Those whom we have lost contributed to the greatness of their profession. They knew no compromise with pettiness; they did not leave others to lead the way; they did not hesitate to enter the lists in defense of the ideals of journalism which they knew must survive if the world is to survive."

"We fellow newspapermen are proud to have known these men as our contemporaries. Their leadership in their communities will be remembered long after they and we have departed. Now therefore be it resolved by the American Newspaper Publishers association that this memorial be made a part of our records and that a copy be sent to the families of those who have left us. Together with an expression of our sorrow and sense of our loss in their passing."

Straits Shale OK For Bridge

Pressure Tests Made By Engineers

LANSING (P)—Prof. William S. Housel of the Engineering Research Institute at the University of Michigan today reported to the Mackinac bridge authority that the shale underlying the Straits of Mackinac is strong enough to support a bridge.

The report was to be considered at a meeting of the authority today. Fears had been expressed in some quarters that the material underlying the Straits was too soft to support the tremendous weight that would be exerted by the foundations of the bridge.

Tests conducted during January and February, Housel said, indicated that the shale would stand at least a pressure of 25 tons per square foot for the largest piers that might be used for the bridge.

The board of engineers of the authority last January recommended that the bridge foundations be designed to exert pressures of 15 tons per square foot.

In its recommendation the board estimated the additional load for wind and ice at a maximum of 10 tons. This would make the total maximum pressure exerted by the bridge 25 tons.

"The primary purpose . . . in having these tests made," the authority said, "was to provide factual evidence on the founda-

Water Projects To Be Studied

Hearings Will Be Held In Lansing

The Michigan State Waterways commission will conduct its annual project conference at Lansing on May 22 and 23, Bert Robb, director of the commission, announced.

At this meeting the commission will hold public hearings and consider applications for harbor projects and future improvement of recreational boating facilities. Specific problems of maritime regulations, law enforcement, channels and aids to navigation will be considered on request.

In a letter to the Escanaba Chamber of Commerce, Rep. Einar Erlandsen of Delta county said: "It was my thinking that interested parties in Delta county may want to be heard in regard to harbor improvements and recreational boating facilities. I have in mind especially the Ford river, which has been under discussion by many people as a harbor which needed improvements."

tion conditions for a bridge at the Straits of Mackinac."

The facts could not be arrived at "by speculation and unfounded criticism," the authority said.

The statement added that the tests will cost an estimated $11,000.

New Water Filtration Plant Is Assured By Council's Actions

THE Escanaba city council Wednesday cleared the way for construction of a new water filtration plant at Sand Point and for extension of water mains in North Escanaba. The council voted to sell the city's $900,000 water revenue bonds at an average interest rate of 2.63% and also authorized the final award of the water plant construction project to the Pearson construction company of Benton Harbor.

In taking these actions, the council fulfilled the mandate of the city's voters who expressed approval of the water plant project overwhelmingly a year ago.

It is true that the cost of the water project has increased within the past year, both in construction costs and in financing costs. The low bid of 2.63% interest rate on the city's revenue bonds was somewhat higher than city officials had hoped to get. But to reject the bids on the bonds would also have required rejection of the low bid on the construction project. It is generally conceded that if the water plant project were to be rebid at today's unsettled conditions, a higher construction cost would result. Also, there is no assurance that municipal revenue bonds will command lower interest rates in the months ahead.

The other alternative would be to abandon plans for immediate construction of the water plant and to await a depression when construction costs would drop and also federal help in municipal projects might be forthcoming. There is a definite risk in this plan, however, because of its uncertainty. There is no indication if, as and when there will be another depression. Neither is there any certainty that the present water filtration plant, leaking at the seams, will continue in service indefinitely.

It is a risk that the council preferred not to take and understandably so. A community's most vital need is a source of water that is potable, ample and reliable. The new water filtration plant will meet that need in every respect. It will necessitate increased cost of water service to the consumers but for the average residential user, consuming about 4,000 gallons per month, the increased cost per month will be very small.

State Bar Proposes Judicial Changes

THE State Bar of Michigan has proposed some sweeping changes in the judicial system of the state and the recommendations deserve the careful consideration of the people. That changes are needed for a more effective judicial system has been recognized for a long time.

The court calendars of many judicial districts are overcrowded. Some judges are physically incapacitated but remain on the bench because there is no adequate retirement system for them.

The recommendations of the State Bar follow:

1. A constitutional amendment to provide for the selection of judges by the governor, made upon recommendation of an unbiased committee of citizens and the reelection or rejection of such judges by ballot following an initial preliminary term in office.

2. A constitutional amendment to provide for the tenure of office to be increased from six to eight year terms.

3. Legislation to provide for the proper replacement of judges when they have become physically incapacitated. The cost of a retirement system for judges would be met by increasing the filing fee for litigants in circuit court cases from four to six dollars, plus contributions by the participating judges.

4. Proposals for improving the machinery for administration of the courts by appointment of a court administrator to serve as executive secretary, plus authority for disciplinary action by the supreme court against judges of courts of record who willfully neglect their duties.

5. A raise in salary for the supreme court justices and circuit court judges.

6. A plan for county courts in every county of the state at the option of the people of the county. The purpose of this proposal is to provide a swifter and more equitable handling of minor cases.

7. Clarification of the procedures of hearing by various agencies to safeguard the administration of justice.

An Oil Well Every 23 Minutes

IN 1949, world production of crude oil was estimated at 3,407,900,000 barrels. Of this, the United States produced 54 per cent, or 1,840,307,000 barrels. Russian production was 255,000,000 barrels.

Our tremendous edge in oil production is, of course, a military asset of the very highest magnitude—oil is one of the relatively small number of basic resources which have a fateful bearing on victory or defeat in war. And our tremendous edge in oil production proves something else too—the superiority of the free enterprise system over all others.

It is true that our vast oil resources are a happy accident of nature. We didn't have anything to do with creating them. But nature has been lavish in other lands too—notably, the Soviet Union. And in no other land has anything fairly resembling our success in the production and utilization of natural resources been made.

Oil, as a commercial enterprise, is less than a century old in this country. Today we have nearly 450,000 producing wells, scattered through 26 states. A new producing well is brought in every 23 minutes on the average! The industry is winning by the margin of 2-to-1 in the race to replace exhausted wells with new producers. In spite of the vast consumption of recent years, our known proved reserves of crude are greater than ever.

Only a free people, working in a free, intensely competitive economy, can account for such achievements as this. The totalitarian states, where government is master, and the individual a voiceless slave have nothing to offer by way of comparison.

Little Shopper

When your working day is over and your phone begins to ring, and your wife is on the line with quite-a cheery song to sing, she informs you that she wouldn't have you ride a crowded bus, and she'll pick you up and take you home and save you lots of fuss. So you're gladly driving homeward when, above the traffic roar, she declares she'd like to stop for just a minute at the store.

It is only meat for supper—that is all she wants to buy, and she says that she'll be back in just the twinkling of an eye. Then she goes inside the market and you let your motor run, being reassured in just a flash she'll have her errand done. But it's soon you learn her minutes seem almost as long as years, and you're more than flabbergasted when at last she reappears.

Though she said a single purchase was the only one she'd make, she is loaded down with heavy sacks as if her back would break. For besides a little dab of meat, she lugs a lot of stuff—soap and cans and fruits and carrots and a lot of eatin' fluff. Should you say what you are thinking, it would only make her sore—when she goes to buy a piece of meat, she buys the whole darn store.

Merry-Go-Round

By DREW PEARSON

WASHINGTON—Shrewd Speaker Sam Rayburn, one of the president's best assets on Capitol Hill, was talking to friends about the sad state of Mr. Truman's prestige as a result of the MacArthur controversy and asked for ideas on how to improve the president's public relations. Rayburn felt that the president was right in ousting a military commander who refused to obey orders, but deplored some aspects of the way the matter was handled.

One friend suggested that what the president needed was some smart public relations expert to advise him.

If he got some advice from Earl Newsom in New York, who handles public relations for Standard Oil and Henry Ford," suggested the friend, "and from Tim McInerney, who knows all the public-relations angles in Washington, they could probably change the present trend."

"Yes," replied Rayburn, "but they wouldn't be able to get anywhere near the White House. The boys around the president would never let them in."

What the speaker referred to is the extreme jealousy of most White House advisers. They are so fearful that some outside adviser will weaken their cherished positions close to the throne, that they let few people of any stature have the president's ear—except for routine official callers.

This is one of Truman's greatest weaknesses today.

TRUMAN'S BAD TIMING

Meanwhile, the president's sense of timing has proved deplorably bad. When Truman fired Louey Johnson as secretary of defense, he did so exactly three days before the Inchon landing in Korea. If he had waited until after the Inchon landing, he knew Johnson would have received part of the credit for this victory and his dismissal would have been unpopular. So Truman fired him first.

In the case of MacArthur, if the president had relieved him immediately after the tragic December defeat in Korea, public opinion would have been with Truman. Instead, he waited for the wrong moment.

Note—With a few exceptions, such as Dean Acheson, Roosevelt never fired a high official outright. He usually sent them to China or some other foreign country to make a survey, then eased them out of office afterward. Acheson was fired as undersecretary of the treasury at a press conference during which Acheson was waiting in an outer office. He did not know he was fired until the newsmen, emerging from the press conference, told him so. He had disagreed with FDR about devaluing the gold content of the dollar.

VEEP AND MACARTHUR

Every movie theater in the country is now showing General MacArthur's dramatic speech to the joint session of Congress. As the movie cameras recorded MacArthur's famous attack on the administration, their lenses also recorded the impassive face of Vice President Alben Barkley.

Barkley, sitting immediately behind MacArthur, gave no outward indication of his thoughts. However, Barkley's friends report that while MacArthur was striking at the foundation of the administration's foreign policy, the veeep was reflecting on his own personal ties with the general.

Barkley recalled that his oldest daughter, Laura, is married to Douglas MacArthur III, the general's nephew. And as he listened to the general's vitriolic attack, he thought of the many tickets he had given MacArthur's relatives so they could come and witness the attack.

He could not help but wonder also what his son-in-law, Douglas MacArthur III, thought about his uncle's "Save Asia first" ideas. For young MacArthur is state department adviser to the man who is trying to save Europe first—Gen. Dwight Eisenhower.

TAXING WOMEN'S FACES

Chief congressional champion of the "working girl" is Rep. John Dingell of Michigan. One of his pet themes is unfair taxes on women's toiletries articles, and the other day he delivered a brisk lecture on the excise tax problems of the fair sex during a closed-door meeting of the House way and means committee.

"One of the worst tax inequities I can think of is the 20 per cent excise on ladies' handbags," challenged the Detroit Democrat. "Why should a handbag be considered a luxury when it serves the same purpose, to a woman, as a man's pockets?"

Pointing out that an excise is chiefly a "subterfuge sales tax" passed on to customers, Dingell demanded a repeal of excise taxes on all cosmetics and no increase in current excises on cigarettes and "the working man's champagne"—beer.

Diplomats On All Sides Tread Uneasy Course To Avoid Point Of No Return

By WILLIAM H. CHAMBERLIN

Many nations today give the impression of walking tightropes in foreign policy. Many situations, foreign and domestic, are in a state of precarious balance. The state of the war in Korea is a good example of this point.

There have been many moods as the news from that distant war theatre shifted. At first there was dismay over the military strength of the Soviet-trained North Korean army. This gave way to elation when General MacArthur carried out the Inchon landing, cut the North Korean army to pieces, and swept northward toward the Yalu River. Elation gave way to depression bordering on panic when Chinese Communist troops intervened in force and inflicted defeat on U.N. forces strung out too thinly in the wild terrain of the Korean mountains.

At least until the dismissal of General MacArthur stirred controversy to the boiling point a more sober mood, equally removed from extremes of optimism and pessimism, had begun to prevail. Under General Ridgway's careful yet aggressive leadership the U.N. army had proved that the Chinese Reds are not such supermen as they were assumed to be in the dark days of December. They are better soldiers than China has mustered in the past. But superiority of the U.N. troops in firepower, with command of the air and the sea, has made it possible to inflict on the Chinese disproportionately heavy casualties, at a ratio of ten to one or higher, and has, for the present, banished the spectre of a large-scale Korean Dunkirk.

Hope for Compromise Settlement

The apparent hope now is to achieve a compromise settlement in Korea by waging a war of limited objective with limited methods. The two extreme suggestions so often heard in December, complete evacuation of Korea or bombing of targets in Manchuria and China proper have both been put aside. There can now be little doubt that the United States, and still more its associates in the United Nations, would be willing to settle for a cease-fire based on the political status quo, with the 38th Parallel as the frontier between the non-Communist and Communist parts of Korea. It is still not clear, however, whether Red China is prepared to settle for such a solution.

Korea is only one aspect of the larger issue of American foreign policy. This policy tries to steer a middle course between precipitating war and encouraging further Soviet aggression by conspicuous weakness. So there has been agreement, in principle, to talk with Soviet representatives, but unwillingness to accept a Soviet agenda for the talks that would be loaded against the viewpoint of the western powers from the start. There has been a rejection of extreme counsels to break diplomatic relations with Moscow or to take certain military steps in the Far East that might be expected to invite strong Soviet retaliation. But there has been a strong stepping up of military preparedness and of political and psychological warfare, aimed at driving wedges between the peoples of the iron curtain countries, Russia included, and their governments.

Yugoslavia's Course

Yugoslavia offers a good example of a regime trying to walk a tightrope. Marshal Tito tries to show just enough friendship toward the western powers, in the United Nations and elsewhere, to create the impression in Moscow that he would not be left unaided in the event of an attack by Bulgaria, Hungary and Rumania. At the same time he steers clear of such complete identification with the western cause as would be implied by joining the Atlantic Pact and granting bases for American and British aircraft in Yugoslav territory. This restraint is partly in deference to the Communist creed which he still professes and is also motivated by the fear of provoking an attack which he hopes to avert.

There is no sure way of reading the minds of the men in the Kremlin. But it seems quite probable that they, too, are walking a tightrope, trying to gain as much ground, diplomatically and strategically, and to stir up as much trouble for the western powers as possible without taking the final irrevocable step of starting all-out war, with no limitations on the political objectives and the types of weapons used.

The French Tightrope

This same attempt to preserve a delicate equilibrium is to be found in many domestic situations. Unstable and shortlived cabinets are an old French tradition. But this tendency has been aggravated because successive French governments have to count on very slim majorities against the two opposite extremes of the Communists and the followers of General de Gaulle.

The men responsible for United States mobilization more or less consciously seek a middle road between too much armament, which would be economically disastrous if there is no large scale conflict, and too little, which might be an invitation to aggression. The recent appointment of a presidential commission to pass on the related questions of national security and individual liberty is an attempted response to another dilemma.

All reasonable Americans recognize the desirability of preserving our constitutional rights and liberties. All reasonable Americans also recognize that the conspiratorial agents of an international subversive movement which is the blind tool of a powerful foreign state are at work in this country and represent a new and disturbing problem.

Just where does individual liberty necessarily give way to the demands of national security? Where is the line to be drawn, where is the balance to be struck?

An Example of Calm Tolerance

This age of violence, fanaticism and unreason could benefit from the calm tolerant philosophy of the British seventeenth century statesman, Viscount Halifax, of whom Macaulay writes:

"He was the chief of these politicians whom the two great parties contemptuously called Trimmers. Instead of quarreling with this nickname, he assumed it as a title of honor, and vindicated, with great vivacity, the dignity of the appellation. Everything good, he said, trims between extremes. The temperate zone trims between the climate in which they are frozen. The English constitution trims between Turkish despotism and Polish anarchy. Virtue is nothing but a just temper between propensities any one of which, if indulged to excess, becomes vice."—From Wall Street Journal.

Letters From The People

Wells School Issue

Dear Editor:

I would also like to congratulate the "no" voters of Wells township, who were wise and intelligent enough to see through the hazy picture painted for them. Why should they pay higher taxes and borrow money that they may not need for some time to come. Why not ask for sufficient funds to build the school at Pine Ridge? This would relieve the present congested situation that now exists. Concerning the building of the new schools, it was said that enough material could be obtained at the present time to construct one two room school at Pine Ridge, but enough material to build the other and bigger school could not be obtained for possibly five years. Why, then should the people borrow all this money now? Why not wait until the time comes, perhaps by that time the board will be better situated financially and this need of money will not be so great.

As for the voters not liking some members of the school board, it seems from some of the things I have heard that they are entirely justified in their actions. Some of the voters don't like Harry S. Truman either! Now it is high time that the men were separated from the boys. If there were some men on the school board that would act like men instead of spoiled children, they might get some cooperation. That small 30 percent left for the taxpayer would in many cases amount to $50.00 and $100.00 annually. What may be peanuts to some people means a lot to people who have to work hard for their money.

When this problem of school is presented properly, and at the proper time, I'm sure the taxpayers of this township will give it their whole hearted support.

Interested Person.

Good Evening...

By CLINT DUNATHAN

LOOKING OUT—With circuit court in session our days have been pretty much confined to what goes on inside the four walls of the court room.

Looking longingly out of a court room window into the sun-filled world, we saw Mel Nyquist, Delta 4-H agent, going down the walk with a number of feminine garments over his arm. This might have excited the curiosity of anyone who does not know him or his work, for Mel has a definitely masculine appearance.

But we knew where he was going. He was on his way to Escanaba Junior high school with his dresses, house coats and other 4-H clothing project exhibits. Spring 4-H Achievement Day will be held tomorrow and Mel had brought in some garments from one of the clubs in the county for display in the Junior high gym.

BACKGROUND OF 4-H—In the court room Judge Jackson announced that a recess would be taken and undersheriff John Frederickson tapped the gavel and spectators went out to buzz-buzz over what the witnesses had said.

We made our way downstairs to the office of Agricultural Agent Joe Heirman, also the office of Mel Nyquist and Miss Ingrid Tervonen, the Delta home demonstration agent. Alone in the office was Miss Laurel Plourde, stenographer and secretary for the Michigan State college extension service office.

Looking forward to the necessity of writing the daily column, we asked Miss Plourde for some background information about 4-H. We said we proposed to write something about 4-H in connection with the approaching Achievement Day.

THE PREPARATION—While we were there Mrs. Ted McFadden of Cornell, leader of a 4-H club, came in to confer with Miss Plourde about Achievement Day and then hurried out.

The information we sought was found for us and we asked Miss Plourde if we could leave the booklet in her office until court was over about 5 o'clock.

"But you may be gone by that time," we said.

"No," she replied, shaking her. "I'll be here. There is a lot of work to be done before tomorrow."

She turned back to her work with records and typing and we went back up to the court room, thinking about 4-H and its value to the young people of Delta county and other counties in the Michigan, and in all the other states of the union.

KNOWING AND READING—Some of that which we know about 4-H is from personal observation.

We have seen many unselfish parents and others devoting numerous hours of time to provide the leadership the 4-H clubs must have. Essentially 4-H is a volunteer program. The leaders and their assistants receive no pay or expense money.

"Head — Heart — Health — Hands." The four H's of the 4-H have behind them a program of education in living, kindness in sharing, activity toward health, and work toward greater skills.

THE RETURNING—Today the exhibits of some 55 Delta county boys and girls are being judged at the spring Achievement Day display in Junior high.

Back of those exhibits of aprons, cedar chests, sun suits, table lamps, knitted socks, reports on tractor maintenance, and other displays of achievement by the 4-H members during the winter months is an idea—work, satisfying work, is the solution to most of the riddles of a complex life.

Doing the daily job with a purpose, striving and achieving, are lessons that could lift the young people of America out of indirection, indecision, and idleness.

The 4-H program began back in 1914 and it has been growing steadily ever since. Until recently it was primarily considered a program for rural youth.

Today, in response to a demand from boys and girls in the towns, 4-H is branching out to include them.

Or perhaps it might be said that as parents in the cities note the danger signals of wasted time and aimless recreation among their children, they are turning to 4-H as a solution to their children's problems. It is a returning to an old-fashioned essential—development of good work habits.

America was built with hard work and inspired by the glory of achievement. Remember that when you think of 4-H.

QUESTIONS AND ANSWERS

Atlanta: In a recent column you gave the pronunciation of sumac as "SHOO-mak." Now Frank, honey, do you honestly believe that su- can ever have the sound of "sh"?—Dixie.

Answer: Ah sure do, Sugar. Omaha: Please give me the correct pronunciation of the word "Malemute." I am speaking of the Eskimo dogs used for pulling sleds in the North Country.

A. Say: MAHL-uh-myoot. El Paso: The word culprit fascinates me. I can see no root word in it. Can you tell me how this word entered our language?—Dr. A. McL.

A. Culprit does have an interesting history. It goes back to the time when Anglo-French was used in the courts of England, and actually the formation of the word was an accident, for it is an abbreviation of culpable, which meant "guilty" plus prit, "ready (i. e., to prove it)." Instead of writing culpable-prit every time the expression was used in court records, officials began writing the abbreviated form "cul.prit," and in time the clerks began using the abbreviation orally.

"Cul.prit" was the reply used to a prisoner pleading "not guilty," originally meaning "ready (to prove) guilty," or "How will you be tried?"

Eventually the literal meaning was forgotten, and the word culprit evolved in its modern meaning, "an offender; one guilty of a crime or misdemeanor."

Detroit Transit Tieup Drags On

No Sign Of Break In 7-Day Walkout

DETROIT—(AP)—The city bus and street car drivers' strike dragged into its seventh day today.

Meantime, the city kept on with its business despite the complete tieup of public transportation by the walkout of the AFL's 3,700 drivers.

City officials took steps to meet with the congestion problem of downtown parking.

Mayor Albert E. Cobo approved the conversion of the site of the projected city-county building into a temporary parking lot. It is a two-block area at Woodward and Jefferson avenues.

Since the start of the strike the downtown district has been over-loaded with private cars.

The AFL's striking union wants an 8½ cents an hour pay increase. The city offers 5 cents. A dispute also exists over fringe benefits. These bring total pay to about $2.50 an hour.

Today Mayor Cobo and the union continued sparring in the mails.

Royal Navy Munitions Ship Blows Up; 6 Die

LONDON—(AP)—The admiralty announced today that the royal navy munitions ship Bedenham blew up at Gibraltar this morning, killing six and injuring an undetermined number. Earlier reports said there were no casualties.

The admiralty said only casualties among navy personnel aboard the 1,152-ton ship were a number of injured. This was taken to mean that all dead were civilian port workers.

A dispatch from La Linea, Spain, only a mile from Gibraltar, said 50 blast victims were rushed there. Windows were shattered in La Linea.

W. J. Edwards, civil lord of the admiralty, told the house of commons he understood that a lighter—a small vessel used for unloading purposes—alongside the Bedenham, also blew up.

Report Of B-29 Crash In Arizona Checked

LONDON—(AP)—A U. S. Third Air Division spokesman said tonight he is investigating a report that a B-29 had crashed in the Azores with 16 airmen aboard.

He said no direct official information had been received from the Azores and that he had no information regarding casualties.

A B-29 which had been on a training mission with the Third Air Division here was enroute back to its base in Roswell, N. M. The first stop in America was scheduled for Westover Field, Mass.

High Water, Cool Weather Hurt Trout Season Opening

The 1951 Michigan trout season opens tonight at midnight tonight but Delta county anglers aren't expecting any world-beating opening day.

Cool weather and medium high water in most streams are expected to limit the opening day catch. But they won't necessarily limit the number of anglers on the streams.

This is the day the fishermen have been waiting for many months and hundreds of them will be out on the streams, if for nothing more than to be on the streams.

Water Is High
Water in the Escanaba river is much too high and too fast for good fishing. In fact, some anglers

MacArthur Calls For Some Kind Of Policy In Korea

though my public life is now closed," * * * He would continue "To advocate a positive and realistic policy for Korea, designed to bring the war to an early and honorable end."

The General was interrupted by an outburst of "No! No!" after he had declared "My public life is now closed." When he resumed, smiling, he told the crowd: "It is closed."

And Mrs. MacArthur and their son, Arthur, seated on the platform, shook their heads in agreement with the General as the crowd shouted "No! No!"

MacArthur, who since his arrival from the Pacific last week has been hailed in demonstrations in New York, Washington and San Francisco, told the throng: "I have been encouraged in many ways by the events which have followed my return from long absence abroad. Foremost of the encouraging signs has been the demonstration that the American people are keenly allied to their own responsibilities and do unhesitatingly voice their views on the direction of the policy of government."

MacArthur said that it was "Difficult to ask men to fight and die unless we give them a realistic mission and the means to accomplish it." And then he asked, "What is our policy in Korea?"

Gets Standing Ovation
Some say, he said, our policy is pacification and unification of Korea. Others, he added, say that our objective is achieved upon clearing South Korea of invading forces.

"Still others," MacArthur said, "Ignore both explanations and frankly say that our objective now is to continue to engage the enemy forces in a prolonged and indecisive campaign of attrition, notwithstanding the constantly increasing cost in American blood."

MacArthur decried interference with the American Far East political policy "By nations with only token forces in the field." "It is in this situation of complete unreality that while meticulously implementing the directives given me, I have strongly urged the need for a positive policy attuned to the military realities and designed to stop through strength this slaughter of America's sons."

He was given a standing ovation by the topcoated crowd that half-filled the stadium. Skies were clear but temperatures were near 40 degrees.

Then, after a brilliant display of fireworks, the General was cheered as his car slowly circled a track bordering the grassy infield. Before he left the stadium he stopped his car and shook hands with more than a score of wounded Korean war veterans.

Eighteen members of the Escanaba band will play in the massed band which will highlight the evening's program.

Draft Bill Delayed Two Weeks Due To MacArthur Hearing

WASHINGTON—(AP)—A delay of two weeks to a month in efforts to iron out Senate-House differences in the draft-universal military training program was decided upon today.

The Senate investigation of the firing of General Douglas MacArthur was given as the main reason for the delay.

Today's decision was made after a compromise offer was reported in lowering the minimum draft age.

House spokesmen were said to have proposed an 18 year old minimum for future universal military training (UMT), if actual combat service for draftees was pegged at 19, the present minimum age for induction.

The Senate has voted to reduce the induction age a full year, both for immediate service and UMT. The House approved a minimum of 18 years and six months for both with a requirement of at least six months basic training before assignment to combat or overseas duty.

Owosso Man Burns To Death In Truck Cab After Collision

KALAMAZOO, Mich. — (AP) — Trapped in the cab of his burning automobile haulway truck after it collided head-on with a truck-trailer carrying 13,000 pounds of fertilizer, Fred L. Immel of Owosso was burned to death today.

Charles Briggs, 31, of Chicago, driver of the fertilizer truck, was critically injured. Hospital attaches said they did not expect him to live.

The two big trucks rammed together on US-12, five miles east of here, at 6 a. m.

Gasoline tanks of both trucks caught fire and flames leaped 75 feet into the air as fire consumed both wrecked vehicles.

Briggs broke out of his cab and staggered 25 feet before falling. Firemen from suburban South Comstock put out the flames.

Immel was a driver for Commercial Carriers, Inc., of Flint, and Briggs is employed by the Aztec Lines, Inc., of Chicago.

Another Two-Star General To Retire And Join MacArthur

TOKYO — (AP) — Maj. Gen. Charles A. Willoughby, a MacArthur man from the Bataan and Corregidor days, has asked for army retirement so he can rejoin General MacArthur.

He is the second of two-star general rank to follow MacArthur in the five-star controversy with the White House.

"I expect to join him and offer what modest services I can render," Willoughby said today.

Maj. Gen. Courtney Whitney previously asked to be relieved of army duty when MacArthur was ousted. He is with the general now in the United States.

Statue Of Undraped Woman Ordered For Earl Carroll Grave

LOS ANGELES—(AP)—There will be a statue of an undraped woman over the grave of showman Earl Carroll.

That was the wish of Carroll, who was killed with his showgirl friend, Beryl Wallace, and others in a Pennsylvania air crash in 1948.

The nearly life-sized bronze statue is intended to symbolize Miss Wallace, leading lady in Carroll's shows, said attorney Guy E. Ward.

Out Our Way

ONWARD, 'TIS OUR COUNTRY NEEDS US—HE IS BRAVEST AND HE WHO LEADS US—STRIKE FOR LOVE, FOR LIFE AND GLORY—

Allies Give Up All Ground North Of Parallel 38

Friday they drove on it for the third time.

The force of their drive appeared to be weakening, 8th Army headquarters said Friday. It reported U. N. troops in their path fought "a stubborn delaying action."

In some sectors the Reds had gained 30 miles since they launched their spring offensive Sunday. But they paid a terrific price. The U. N. command estimated 35,000 Reds were killed in four and a half days.

"They're spending people like we spend ammunition," one officer said.

Units Surrounded
A single American artillery division in the west fired more than 30,000 rounds — about $1,500,000 worth — in two days.

Allied losses were described as negligible. But there were losses. The U. N. withdrawal was a series of heroic fights.

Swarming Communist masses repeatedly surrounded U. N. units — Turks, Belgian, British, American. An Australian outfit fought Reds on three sides.

Trapped units fought clear with relatively light losses. But one, the British Royal Gloucestershire First Battalion, lost heavily. It was overwhelmed by sheer numbers of Chinese.

AP Correspondent Tom Bradshaw reported that part of one company were the only known survivors. Censors withheld the exact losses.

"There were some nasty scenes up there," said one British officer. "I saw a column of our tanks coming back, carrying piles of dead and wounded with blood running down the side of the tanks."

Rain Hampers Airmen

At dawn Friday Allied troops still held a substantial chunk of North Korean soil, AP correspondent Nate Polowetzky reported. Two Red Korean attacks near Inje were beaten off during the night. U. N. artillery broke up a third before it could get started.

Friday's rain hampered Allied airmen who had been flying more than 1,000 sorties daily. Two flights of F-51 Mustangs turned the highway to the front into a road of death for a Red Korean Friday morning. Firebombs scorched the earth where the Communists marched.

B-29 Superforts continued their daily bombing of North Korean air fields.

More Money Sought From Legislature For Houghton Tech

LANSING—(AP)—The state department of administration asked the legislature today for more money for the Michigan College of Mining and Technology and the Copper Country Tuberculosis Sanatorium at Houghton.

The request went to the appropriation committee, asserting the sums were in addition to the governor's previous budget recommendations for next year.

State Controller Robert F. Steadman recommended $105,580 for the mining school and its Soo branch for staff salary increases.

He said all other state institutions had included salary increases in their budget requests and that, while the two northern schools did not, fairness required that all be treated the same.

The Houghton school would get $84,000 of the total and the Soo branch $21,500.

Russia And Red China Get No More British Rubber In Singapore

LOS ANGELES — (AP) — Red China and Russia will get no more rubber from Singapore, says James Currie, commercial counselor to the British embassy in Washington.

Currie told newsmen yesterday that export licenses for rubber which were approved April 9 will preclude any possibility of Communist countries getting Malaya rubber. He said the British government will not approve licenses for export to the Reds.

The effect of this will be to create a modified embargo, said Currie. He said a complete embargo would mean economic war.

French Parliament Divided Again Over Balloting System

PARIS — (AP) — France's parliament stood divided anew today over what election system to use for choosing a new national assembly this year.

The national (lower house) assembly voted 357-258 last night against a proposal to return to the prewar system of double elections. This measure previously had won a favorable vote in the council of the Republic—parliament's upper chamber.

Already, a bill based on a system of alliances to help the small non-Communist parties combine their strength against Red candidates has been passed by the assembly, but was voted down by the council.

Under the Fourth Republic's constitution the assembly must override a council veto by an absolute majority—311 deputies—if its own bill is to become law. The bill was some 50 votes short of that figure on its first passage.

Legislature Rejects Bill To Set Up FEPC Program In Michigan

LANSING—(AP)—A bill to set up a fair employment practices commission was killed by the house state affairs committee today.

Rep. Robert M. Montgomery, (R-Lansing), committee chairman, said that a bare quorum of five members of the nine-member committee appealed for a meeting on the bill.

They voted four to one in favor of tabling the measure, he said.

Introduced by Rep. Louis C. Cranton (R-Lapeer), the bill would have declared it illegal to hire and fire on the basis of race, color or religion. It also would have forbidden labor unions to discriminate on those bases and would have set up a commission to administer the act.

This is the latest in a series of refusals by the Michigan legislature to copy FEPC legislation of other states.

Extension Granted For Food Dealers To Adjust Prices

WASHINGTON — (AP) — The government today granted a two-week extension—from April 30 to May 14—for retail and wholesale food dealers to put food prices under the new "percentage markup" system.

The Office of Price Stabilization said there is no extension beyond tomorrow for the 560,000 retail food stores with OPS district offices.

Three regulations were issued. One affects wholesalers' prices, one covers small independent retailers and the third governs chain stores and large independents.

The retail stores were classified into four groups depending on the volume of business done yearly. By April 28 the stores must notify OPS what classification they will use in re-pricing goods. This deadline has not been changed.

Under the regulations the food dealers must figure their new prices by applying specified percentage markups to each item of food based on their latest net cost shown on invoices.

Czech Communists Accuse AP Writer Of Stealing Secrets

By RICHARD KASISCHKE
FRANKFURT, Germany—(AP)—Czechoslovakia's Communist government today accused Associated Press Correspondent William N. Oatis, arrested by secret police, of spreading "material insulting to the Czechoslovak Republic and its order."

The (AP)'s Prague Chief of Bureau, held since Monday, also is accused of "securing and verifying certain secret reports," the government told the U. S. Embassy.

Tyler Thompson, American embassy counselor, presented in writing to the Czech government a formal request that he be permitted to see Oatis. He received no definite answer to this request when he made it orally yesterday.

Senate Democratic Margin Gains; Will Bump Sen. McCarthy

WASHINGTON—(AP)—Senate Democrats may open the ranks of the foreign relations committee to a sharp critic of President Truman's Asiatic program rather than risk a blow at the battered bipartisan foreign policy.

The critic is Senator Brewster of Maine, Republican who maintains a personal friendship with the president despite his opposition to many of the latter's domestic and international policies.

Senator McFarland of Arizona, the Democratic leader, told reporters the Democratic steering committee will meet later in the week to decide what to do about filling the foreign relations vacancy left by the death of Senator Vandenberg (R-Mich.).

Blair Moody, 49, a newspaper man, was appointed by Michigan's Democratic governor, G. Mennen Williams, to succeed Vandenberg. As a Senate newcomer, he will get minor committee assignments.

Now 50 To 46

However, his addition to the Democratic ranks means that party will get two more committee memberships under the new 50 to 46 margin over the Republicans.

Democratic leaders already have made up their minds to bump Senator McCarthy (R-Wis) off the important appropriations committee, changing the present 11 to 10 majority ratio there to 12 to 9.

Senator Robertson (D-Va) will get this place. The move will take McCarthy off a subcommittee dealing with state department affairs before he gets a chance to question Secretary of State Acheson. McCarthy has led the Republican attack on Acheson.

To Pick up their other place, Democrats will change the present 7 to 6 majority ratio on some committee to 8 to 5.

They could do this on foreign relations but some Democratic senators said they hope this won't happen because it probably would produce new charges that the bipartisan foreign policy is being roughly handled.

Third In Line

Senator McMahon (D-Conn), a committee member, said he thinks it would be a mistake for the Democrats to take an additional seat.

Brewster is third in line to fill the Republican vacancy on the committee. Senators Bridges (R-NH) and Taft (R-Ohio), ahead of him, have indicated they don't want it.

Brewster has a record of supporting such administration proposals as the European economic aid and foreign arms programs. He supported the troops-To-Europe resolution but backed the amendment calling for congressional action on future troop assignments, which the administration fought.

Document Leaks Peril Security

Wake Island Parley Memorandum Bared

WASHINGTON—The battle of the documents has begun with the first major leak. The contents of the top secret memorandum on the Truman-MacArthur conference on Wake Island has been disclosed in indirect form but with undoubted authenticity.

This leak came from somewhere in the White House and not from the Pentagon. Top military men were startled and dismayed at the extent of the revelation which included discussion of the line south of the former North Korean capital of Pyongyang where it was hoped last October to stabilize a United Nations line.

That information is of value to the enemy. Similar information of value to the Communist conspiracy was contained in the messages between the Pentagon and MacArthur made public when the general was dismissed from his commands.

Aid To The Enemy

Here is an issue far more important than the question of who was right and when during the past nine months. For it relates directly to the lives of the men now fighting desperately to contain the Chinese Communist attack. This is why the joint chiefs of staff have come to a decision in which they deserve the support of public opinion.

They are determined to keep certain documents completely secret. This means that they will not be shown in either open or closed hearings before any congressional committee. Repeatedly after executive sessions where the most careful checks for security have been made someone has leaked vital information that blossoms in the headlines almost before the witness can get back to his office.

The documents to be held back direct aid to the enemy. To spill them out in public would be to jeopardize the position of the U. N. armies to an even greater degree. The JCS have made their decision knowing full well that they may come under attack for it.

Hope For Clarifications

Their position is difficult enough in any event. They want, if possible, to avoid becoming entangled in the political controversy over MacArthur's dismissal, which was outside their sphere of action. The effort will be directed, therefore, at separating the argument over strategy, in which the joint chiefs have a most important role, from the bitterly emotional quarrel over the destiny of hero-general.

If this can be done, then there is hope that the public will see in much clearer terms the real nature of the dispute and the powerful reasoning against deliberately risking any enlargement of the war in Asia at this point. If it proves impossible to separate the two phases of the dispute, we can look forward to little more than fiercer heat and even less light.

An important phase of the reasoning behind the need to try to limit the war is the state of Japan's defenses. While this trends on ticklish security ground, the likelihood is that the strength of Japan will be thoroughly developed. When intelligence reports indicated that the Russians were moving four divisions into Sakhalin and infiltrating small neighboring islands, Japan was virtually defenseless except for the poorly organized and inadequately equipped local police.

On the basis of this information, which began coming in three to four months ago, the decision was made to send two national guard divisions to Japan where they now are. This was done after much grave deliberation since the two divisions had not completed their training. They are now undergoing the final conditioning in Japan.

Annual Forest Report Issued

Signs Of Shortages Are Reported

Increased demand for forest products during the present emergency calls for more research, according to the 1950 annual report of the Lake States Forest Experiment Station, St. Paul, Minn., issued today. Vitiably important long-range investigations must be continued and emergency studies related to production of critical materials must be undertaken as needed.

"Already," says the report, "there are signs of paper shortages and reduced supplies of lumber. Again there is need to step up wood production, but we should be on guard against further impairment of our forest resources. This calls for all the skill and knowledge that foresters possess and cooperation from landowners, industry, farmers, legislatures, and the general public."

With current unsettled conditions as a background, the report points out recent station findings which, when applied, can result in better handling of the forests of Minnesota, Wisconsin and Michigan, and thus contribute to national security. It covers such subjects as how much forest the Lake States have, its growth, and the drain upon it from cutting and natural losses; better cutting methods for hardwood, spruce and pine forests; how to regenerate aspen lands; improved management of pine plantations; more efficient fire protection methods; and more economical farm forestry.

Comeback Made By Gilda Gray

Kootch Dancer Packs Them In Again

By ROBERT C. RUARK

NEW YORK—It pleases me considerably to learn that Miss Gilda Gray, the vintage kootch dancer, has been sprung from her exile on a chicken ranch in Colorado, and has her best hip forward in a comeback after nearly dropping a permanent decision to tuberculosis. The Gray chassis has regained its former resilience and is headed toward new and brave conceptions.

The boys used to yell and chew hunks out of their gold-headed canes back in the '20s, when Miss Gray was spinning her hips to such basic tunes as "St. Louis Blues" and "A Good Man Is Hard to Find." For these gymnastics she received as much as $17,000 a week, hard gold, practically taxless dough—very little of which she retained. Gilda spent it as easy as she made it, and she found romance a very expensive item.

How She Did It

I have never forgotten Miss Gray's simple explanation of her specialty. She defined it for me a couple of years ago, surrounded by chickens and health-giving Colorado air.

"First I moved the muscles up top," she said, "with the bottom part motionless. Then I moved the muscles on the left. Then I sort of rippled all the way up from my feet, with everything. You understand there is a lot of ripple left in the old girl yet."

She rippled briefly, in the barnyard, while 5,000 chickens, three cats and I applauded after our own fashion. Before she left Colorado, at least one of the chickens was beginning to walk like her.

Having gained back her normal weight, from an ebb of 92 pounds in 1947, and having been pronounced sound of mind by her doctor, Miss Gray decided to try out her second career in her old home town of Milwaukee. She packed a night club for five weeks, including a heavy portion of Lent, and that is no easy trick for anybody, anywhere. She even has reached the point where anonymous gentlemen are sending ods for hardwood, spruce and pine forests; how to regenerate aspen lands; improved management of pine plantations; more efficient fire protection methods; and more economical farm forestry.

her gifts once more, which pleases her immensely.

"I don't know whether to accept them or not," says Miss Gray fondling an ornate cigarette case. "When I was married and my husband would give me a $7,000 bracelet, I always got the bill, next month. It made me very cagey about accepting presents. But I get a kick out of these trinkets. It just tells me I've still got some zing left."

For a lady who is more or less supposed to be dead, Miss Gray is mighty busy. She is still moiling and toiling with a million-buck lawsuit against Columbia Pictures, which she accuses, with some justification, of pirating her specialty in a film called "Gilda," which presented the Princess Aly Khan as a shimmy dancer.

"After all," says Miss Gray, "who else do you know named Gilda ever made a living swinging a hip?"

A census taken by William the Conqueror in 1086 was recorded in the "Doomsday Book" and was so unpopular that censuses were not taken until comparatively recent times.

Suspicious of Gifts

I don't know whether to accept them or not," says Miss Gray fondling an ornate cigarette case. "When I was married and my husband would give me a $7,000 bracelet, I always got the bill, next month. It made me very cagey about accepting presents. But I get a kick out of these trinkets. It just tells me I've still got some zing left."

Wage Controls To Be Revised

Need Stabilization To Curb Inflation

WASHINGTON — (AP) — Government wage controls are due for an early overhauling now that President Truman has established a new wage board.

Stabilizing wages for the country's 60,000,000 workers is a tough job. But it's an important element in throttling inflation.

The task is to prevent wages and salaries from jumping ahead of prices and yet not discourage workers when their utmost output is needed.

The old Wage Stabilization Board practically collapsed in February when organized labor's members walked out in a hot disagreement over policy. Now Mr. Truman is setting up a new wage board more to labor's liking, although industry isn't happy about the new set-up.

The essential difference is this: The old board merely fixed wage stabilization policy, the limits to which wages could go. The new board will have the important added power of recommending settlement terms of labor disputes.

Industry has expressed fear that the recommendations will amount to outright orders—that is, that no employer will feel he can buck board recommendations but, on the contrary, feel compelled to accept them.

At least, that was the way things worked out with the war labor board during World War II. And if an employer rejects a board recommendation, his plant might be seized and operated by the government, as happened in the last war.

Remember the newspaper picture of Sewell Avery, board chairman of Montgomery Ward, being carried out of his Chicago office by U. S. troops? He had refused to accept a war labor board recommendation.

Needlecraft And
Pattern Features
Will Start Monday

The Escanaba Daily Press will offer its readers two new features beginning Monday, April 30, Anne Cabot's Needlecraft Corner and the popular Sue Burnett Pattern service, both exclusive releases of NEA.

They will appear daily.

Anne Cabot is a nationally known expert in home sewing and home arts. In the Needlecraft Corner she tells her readers how to use needle and thread, wool and cotton yarn, new fabrics and colored ribbons to make lovely things for themselves, their friends and their homes.

The Sue Burnett patterns are simply designed and easy to follow, even for beginners. They will help you in planning your home wardrobe. You will find in Sue Burnett patterns attractive clothes for yourself and your children—clothes that are smart and economical.

In ordering be sure to use the Chicago address, either Anne Cabot or Sue Burnett, depending on your selection, 372 West Quincy Street, Chicago 6, Illinois. This will insure prompt service.

Seniors Of St.
Joseph's Staging
Show Monday Night

Seniors of St. Joseph's high school will stage a talent show Monday evening, April 30, at 8 at William Bonifas auditorium.

The program will include two one-act plays, "Speech, Speech", a comedy, and "What'll We Do?", something more serious. Among stars of the performance will be Wayne Papineau, billed as "Barry Fitzgerald" and Jack Courneene, who is the "Bing Crosby" of the show.

The show is a benefit for funds for senior skip day. There is no admission but donations will be accepted.

The word "argosy" comes from "ragus" which referred to ships from Ragusa, a famous port in the Middle Ages but now the town of Dubrovnik on the Yugoslavian seacoast.

ANNIVERSARY MONDAY—Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Burgo, residents of Gladstone and Escanaba since 1889, will observe their 62nd wedding anniversary Monday, April 30. Let The Pudding
Wait While You
Enjoy Your Child

By MURIEL LAWRENCE

Mrs. White's baby is three weeks old. Her neighbors, friends and relatives come to see her and her new daughter. "Beware of drafts," they say. "Don't worry because she has a slight rash. This formula worked for me."

But seldom does anyone say to Mrs. White: "Remember above all else to enjoy your child. Take care that the chores of motherhood do not make you forget to savor the joys your child will offer you."

So Mrs. White is not warned. Her small Susan's babyhood—perhaps even her childhood, may come and go before Mrs. White suddenly realizes how brief they have been; how she has allowed the routines of living to detract her from enjoyment of them.

A full and happy experience of parenthood just doesn't happen. It is the reward of a conscious and alert resistance to the pressures of life's trivial demands.

Mrs. White, unwarned, is beating up a pudding for dinner when two-year-old Susan comes in from the yard calling excitedly, "Look, mummy, he likes me! He is walking on me!"

Mrs. White, her mind on her new recipe, takes one look at the black and brown caterpillar crawling across her child's dirty palm and says, "Throw that thing away and come back and get your hands washed."

If Mrs. White has been warned, she would let the pudding wait while she joined in Susan's wonder at the marvels of the world to which she is a newcomer.

How Wise You Are—Too Late
There will always be puddings to make; but the opportunity to share in Susan's first real awareness of life that is different from hers will not come again.

There will always be shopping to do; but there will be only one First Day at school with its lumpy clay animal brought home for a mother's awe and admiration.

There will always be gift wrappings and ribbons to pick up on Christmas morning; but a five-year-old son's rapture over his first electric train will be a little different from his Christmas morning joy at eight, at 13, at 16. The afternoon the fever broke; the gift bought with the first earned dime; the confession of a lie that has been told—these are the moments which we are given to make use of. Properly used, they are the vital stuff from which we build what the child guidance authorities call a "good parent-child relationship."

They want us to use them because they know that if we pass them by, those lost opportunities for love and understanding will come back to haunt us in a slow but sure withdrawal of our children's trust and confidence.

If we use them, we will be able to rejoice with the new mother and her new baby. Regret and envy will not say to us, "How you wish you had it to live over again. How wise you are when it's too late."

CARD OF THANKS

We wish to take this means of expressing our heartfelt thanks for the many acts of kindness and sympathy shown us during our bereavement, the loss of our beloved mother, Mrs. Louise LaLande. We especially wish to thank those who sent flowers, and spiritual bouquets, offered the use of their cars, the drivers, Rev. Fr. Walter Roemer, and those who in so many other ways assisted us at this time. The memories of these acts of kindness will ever remain with us.

Signed:
The Family of
Mrs. Louise LaLande

Railroading Theme Of Cub Scout Meet

Using railroading as their theme an interesting meeting of Cub Scout Pack 420 was held Tuesday night at the high school. Each of the six dens put on a skit, some made small locomotives, some imitated trains using a juke box for sound effects while one demonstrated safety measures at crossings.

Casper Page has been dismissed from St. Francis hospital and is convalescing at his home.

Mrs. Chas. Schneider and children and her mother, Mrs. C. V. S. Engstrom will arrive Saturday to visit at her parental home. Mrs. Engstrom has been spending the past several weeks in Detroit with the Dr. Schneiders.

Rev. C. V. S. Engstrom is returning tonight from Chicago where he visited for several days.

Sup't. Wallace Cameron with Don Grenfell at the piano led the boys in song.

The Bobcat ceremony was conducted by Jim Rattray and four more boys: namely, Leslie Swanson, James Sabourin, Wendell Beauchamp and Wayne Kaufman, were taken into the pack.

Advancement ceremonies were conducted by Cubmaster Jack Shiner and Wolf badges were given to Harold Bergman, Dennis Wilbee, Albert Sinclair, Alfred Miron, Michael Hammond, John Foster, William Fink and John Green. The last named also received a gold arrow and two silver arrows. Lion badges went to David Larson and Chester Trygg.

The monthly award went to the den led by Mrs. Dick Hammond. Campfire songs led by Mr. Cameron and taps by Bugler John Trygg brought the meeting to a close.

A new den has been started with Mrs. Elmer Holm as leader and there is room for several more boys, Cubmaster Shiner states.

Circus is the theme for May and each den will put on a show, operate a concession or do something representative of the 'big top' at the next meeting.

Awards Made To Cub Scouts

Ceremony Is Held Wednesday Night

Andrew Houston, of Escanaba, Red Buck Scout executive, presented awards to several members of the Lakeside Cub Pack at its monthly meeting Wednesday evening at Lakeside school.

Rodger Smith, Cubmaster, conducted the meeting which was attended by Cubs and their parents.

Wolf badges were presented to John Williams, Rickie Frederick, Greg Thompson, Robert Carlson, John Moffat, George Fish, Rickie Larson, John Dyer, Ronnie McDonald and Michael McNally. John Williams also was presented with a gold and a silver arrow, and the rest of the group received gold arrows.

Lions Badges
Lions badges were given to John Peterson, Roger Dybevik and Wayne Gunderman. Gold and silver arrows also were presented to Dybevik and Gunderman.

The Scout executive also presented to Cubmaster Smith a merit award to be placed on the pack flag. The presentation was made in acknowledgement of Smith's accomplishments with the Lakeside Pack.

Webelos Ceremony
A candlelight ceremony was conducted by the Cubmaster in presenting Webelos badges to the following Lions Cubs: Wayne Gunderman, Jan LeDuc and Dick Smith. This is the highest badge in Cubbing and is a prelude to enrollment of the boys as Boy Scouts.

The program included the presentation of an impromptu playlet, "At the Railroad", by the following Cubs: Billy Norton, John Moffat, Duncan Reese, Roger Dybevik, Robert Carlson, Pierre LeBrasseur, Seb Rubick, and Ronnie McDonald.

A game, "Driving the Golden Spike", also was conducted, with all Cubs participating.

It was announced at the meeting that Cubs whose parents miss two pack meetings in succession will automatically be dropped from the rolls.

The next pack meeting will be highlighted by a circus, it was announced.

Cancer Show Big Success

About $240 Given At Performance

A crowd estimated at over 500 persons attended the Variety and Style Show Wednesday evening in the high school auditorium, contributing approximately $240 in gross proceeds to the Schoolcraft county cancer fund, it is reported.

Both from the standpoint of attendance and income, the show was the most successful conducted here since the style show program was started. Last year income from the show was slightly under $100.

A variety of numbers were on the program in addition to the style review, and enthusiastic audience reaction testified to the success of the stage performances. General chairmen in charge were Mrs. Sidney Bower and Mrs. William Hood.

Appreciation to all who arranged and conducted the show and to the audience for its generous contributions has been expressed by Russell Watson, cancer fund chairman, and Mrs. J. Joseph Herbert, county commander of the local cancer society chapter.

Quota of the local cancer drive is $1,400.

Girl Scouts To Open Cookie Sale Here Tomorrow

The annual Girl Scout cookie sale will open tomorrow, with Girl Scouts canvassing the city for orders, it is announced.

Proceeds from the sale will be used for Camp Timbertrail and the Brownie Day Camp.

Cookies will be delivered during the week of May 20. The sale price is three boxes for $1 or 40 cents per box.

The girl selling the most cookies will be given a prize, and the troop with greatest sales will be treated to a movie by J. L. LeDuc.

To Announce Essay Winners

Contest To End Next Thursday

Winners in an essay contest conducted among Manistique high students by the VFW auxiliary will be announced at an assembly next Thursday afternoon, May 3, it is announced.

The contest, sponsored on a nation-wide basis by Legion auxiliaries, was on the subject, "Freedom's Open Door." The local winner will compete in a state contest, and the state winner will be entered in national competition.

Students of Belding high school, Michigan, won the national contest during the past two years, a distinctly unusual feat, it is reported.

Judges for the local contest are Mrs. James H. Fyvie, Merrill Johnson and Robert J. Kline. Auxiliary contest chairman was Mrs. John Vaughan, and Marvin Frederickson, head of the high school speech department, directed the contest among students.

Local prizes are $15, $10 and $5 contributed by the auxiliary. The national prize is $1,000.

Another contest will be conducted next year, and the subject matter will be announced in September shortly after the re-opening of school.

National Guard Lists Plans For Recruiting Drive

A recruiting drive with a goal of 130 enlisted men is being launched by the Manistique National Guard company, it is announced. Several openings in the company now exist.

To stimulate competition a prize will be awarded to the platoon obtaining the most recruits, and the individual guardsman getting most enlistments also will be given a cash award.

Deadline for completion of the recruiting program is June 30, 1951.

Plans To Observe Armed Forces Day Being Made Here

Tentative plans are being made by the Manistique National Guard company for the observance of Armed Forces Day on Saturday, May 19, it is reported.

The preliminary program will include a motor march through the city in the morning, followed by an "open house" at the armory. A dance is scheduled for the evening.

Legion Group Is Conducting Wide Service Program

An outstanding program of community service is being carried out by the Manistique American Legion auxiliary, according to a preliminary report submitted at this week's meeting by Mrs. Antone Weber, community service chairman.

The report covered only the activities program so far this year. It revealed the following services:

Fifty-five pairs of cuffs made for the Schoolcraft Memorial hospital; 12 pairs of cuffs for Cloverland Lodge; donation of an electric breast pump to the hospital; acquisition of a wheelchair a hospital bed and a bassinet which is to be loaned to people in the community who need them; and 228 cancer pads made for the local cancer society.

The local unit also is earning money to purchase another wheelchair, Mrs. Weber said.

An invitation to attend the Upper Peninsula Legion convention at Ironwood on June 22-24 was received.

The auxiliary also voted to send a contribution to the cigarette fund of the hospitalized veterans rehabilitation program.

Hostesses for the meeting were Mrs. George Stephens, Mrs. Antone Weber, Mrs. Thomas Grimsley, and Mrs. Vern Johnson.

Cards were played later, with prizes in 500 going to Mrs. George Huber and Mrs. Frank Pavlov; in canasta to Mrs. C. Jackson and Mrs. Fred Homer; and in bunco to Mrs. Earl Malloch, sr., and Mrs. L. Harding.

Captain Doyle Is Leaving To Take Officers' Course

Captain E. J. Doyle, commanding officer of the Manistique National Guard company, is leaving this weekend for Fort Belvoir, Va., where he will take a three-months basic engineers' officer course, it is announced.

Captain Doyle has been commander of the local Guard since its organization on March 25, 1949. During World War II he served for about three years in the South Pacific with the 32nd division, and prior to that time had been connected with a National Guard company in lower Michigan. He has had 12 years experience with the Guard.

During his absence the local company will be commanded by 2nd Lt. Lauritz B. Hough who also has been an officer and platoon leader of the company since its formation. Hough served in the air force during World War II.

Little Cuban Hurler Gets Back At Dykes

(By The Associated Press)

Everybody looks like Christy Mathewson when the Philadelphia A's are in town. Now it's Connie Marrero, Washington's chunky Cuban with a one-hitter.

Marrero picked up where the Yanks Eddie Lopat and Spec Shea left off. The Latin shutout last night on Barney McCosky's first home run since 1947 but he pitched the majors first one-hitter of 1951.

The fun-loving little Cuban stuffed a seventh straight loss down the A's throats, 2-1, winning on honors by Mickey Vernon and Gil Coan. It was his second victory, both over Philadelphia, whose manager, Jimmy Dykes, complains Cubans shouldn't be allowed to play winter ball.

Little Connie retired the first 10 A's in order. Then McCosky hit his homer in the fourth. He walked only two and struck out nine the rest of the way.

Tigers Gamble On Gene Bearden

Hope Fading Lefty Will Aid Staff

DETROIT — (AP) — Southpaw Gene Bearden may answer a crying problem for the Detroit Tigers—or he may become just another fellow who stopped briefly in Detroit.

The Tigers need a strong left-handed relief pitcher. And according to Manager Red Rolfe, Bearden will be used mostly in relief, starting only occasionally.

But 30-year-old Bearden, expected to be in uniform for Saturday's game against the Chicago White Sox, must do a lot of proving if he expects to stay here.

The Tigers bought Bearden from Washington for an estimated $20,000 yesterday.

The native of Arkansas who helped pitch the Cleveland Indians to a pennant in 1948 hasn't done well this spring and wasn't much help to the Washington club.

Purple Heart Vet

Moreover, the Tigers already have veteran Earl Johnson as a left-handed reliever—and it's not likely that Rolfe will keep both around when the May deadline for cutting the roster arrives.

Gene, a Purple Heart veteran of World War II, had a 4-8 mark with Washington and the Cleveland Indians last year. The year before that, he won eight and lost eight for Cleveland.

But as a rookie with Cleveland in 1948 he helped the Indians win a pennant by coping 20 games, losing 7, compiling the league's best earned run average (2.43 per game), and winning the famous post-season playoff game against the Boston Red Sox.

In exhibition games this year Bearden yielded 26 runs and 36 hits in the 30 innings he worked.

Bearden, pitching against the New York Yankees, was knocked out in the third inning of his only American league start this season. He gave up four runs on six hits and two walks.

Letters Awarded At Hermansville

HERMANVILLE — The Hermansville Lions club members and their guests honored the Hermansville High school basketball boys and their coach at a banquet at the Menominee Hotel Wednesday evening. The banquet was attended by about 75 and Wallace C. Cameron, superintendent of Schools in Gladstone, was the main speaker. Chris H. Gribble was toastmaster.

Coach Bob Tacker presented his boys to the audience and then awarded them letters for the year. Boys receiving letters were Melvin Ponette, George Tomasi, George Farley, Gary Barrieau, Edward Lohf, Linus Menard, Larry Lohf and Jack Fletcher. George Whitens received a letter as student manager.

GETS MSC POST

EAST LANSING — (AP) — Appointment of Wayne F. Tinkle of Detroit as acting director of inter-mural athletics was announced today at Michigan State college. Harris Beaman, former director of the fraternity and dormitory sports program, was recalled to the service.

St. Joseph high school baseball team makes its debut Sunday afternoon at Bark River. The game is scheduled for 2 o'clock.

Coach Tom St. Germain said today he probably would start his ace pitcher, southpaw Fred Boddy with Jim Ottensman catching.

St. Germain can field a veteran team with Don Paulin, another lefty, at first; Bob Sendenburgh at second; John Martinac, third base; and Bill Baker, Pete Kutches and Wayne Papineau in the outfield.

If Boddy needs any relief, St. Germain can call on Paulin, who has seen considerable service on the mound.

"Bark River has the makings of a good team with four players who have performed on the Bark River, Wilson and Perronville city teams," said St. Germain. "We played them twice last year and split. They will give us a good test."

The Trojans will play a double-header here Sunday, May 6, meeting Bark River in a return game at 1:30 and Baraga Parochial of Marquette at 3 o'clock.

Menard Gets 2nd Win For Ferris

GRAND RAPIDS — (AP) — Ferris institute won its third baseball game in four starts by beating Aquinas 2 to 1 here yesterday on the four-hit pitching of Ray Menard of Escanaba. It was Menard's second victory.

Ferris scored the winning run in the eighth on an error, a sacrifice and Harry O'Brien's single. Ferris centerfielder Chuck Olsen tallied the other run in the first when he snacked a homer. Dick Moody counted the Aquinas run on Larry Scholten's double.

Chico Apologizes For One-Hitter

WASHINGTON — (AP)—Conrado (Chico) Marrero was almost apologetic. He had broken a promise. He forecast a no-hitter and then came through with a one-hitter against the Philadelphia Athletics.

The squat Cuban promised Manager Bucky Harris before last night's game that he'd toss a perfect game.

"No people," said Chico, waving at the stands containing only 4,673 fans. "No people—no hit."

He then proceeded to set down the A's with one hit.

Marrero, who hasn't learned English yet and says he doesn't intend to, said after the game through interpreter Willie Miranda that he was "just very unlucky."

Marrero, who claims 34 years of age but is said to be 39, said: "Me do mucho better next time."

failure of the New York Giants is headline stuff in the National.

Manager Leo Durocher is getting testy as his Giants continued their slump. Just before last night's eighth straight loss, he boiled over to newsmen covering the club.

Asked to explain his benching of second baseman Eddie Stanky for rookie Artie Wilson, Durocher said:

"Wilson is playing second, that's all. Too many writers distort what I have to say so I'm not explaining anything any more."

Stanky or Wilson. It made no difference. They lost just the same.

Johnny Sain shut out the Giants, 3-0, with six hits as Boston spoiled Sal Maglie's 34th birthday. A two-run homer by Roy Hartsfield, followed by Sam Jethroe's fifth home run, broke open a scoreless game in the eighth inning.

Roberts Beats Dodgers

It was Sain's 100th victory in the majors and No. 1 of the new season.

Robin Roberts hoisted the champion Philadelphia Phils into a first place percentage tie with the idle St. Louis Cards by whipping Brooklyn, 2-0. The Phils made only three hits count while the Dodgers wasted eight.

Chris Van Cuyk allowed only one hit in seven innings but trailed 1-0 when lifted for a pinch hitter in the eighth. The lone hit, a single by Andy Seminick in the third, advanced Dick Sisler, hit by a pitched ball, to third. He scored on Mike Goliat's fly. The second run came off Clem Labine in the eighth.

Real Sluggest

The Boston Red Sox and New York Yankees staged a real day-time slugfest at Fenway.

With Billy Goodman slugging four hits and knocking in three runs, the Red Sox knocked off the Yanks, 13-7, in a 3-hour 30-minute struggle. There were 20 walks and 22 hits off a parade of pitchers.

Ellis Kinder, the only effective pitcher used by either side, allowed only two hits after coming into the game in the fifth. Allie Reynolds, second of four Yank pitchers, was the loser.

The four western teams in the National and American were not scheduled.

Real Sluggest

The Boston Red Sox and New York Yankees staged a real day-time slugfest at Fenway.

With Billy Goodman slugging four hits and knocking in three runs, the Red Sox knocked off the Yanks, 13-7, in a 3-hour 30-minute struggle. There were 20 walks and 22 hits off a parade of pitchers.

Ellis Kinder, the only effective pitcher used by either side, allowed only two hits after coming into the game in the fifth. Allie Reynolds, second of four Yank pitchers, was the loser.

Four Redwings On Star Team

NEW YORK — (AP)—The Detroit Red Wings, National hockey league pennant winners, landed four players on the loop's all-star six today while the Toronto Maple Leafs, Stanley cup champions were completely shut out.

Boston's Bruins captured the other two berths on the team which was picked before the playoffs and announced today.

That explains why the Leafs and the Montreal Canadiens, the other finalist in the Stanley cup playoffs, were blanked. Montreal's Maurice (Rocket) Richard was the stickout of the post-season play but was shaded during the regular season by the sensational scoring feats of Detroit's Gordie Howe.

The first team:

The second team:

Each player on the first team will receive a $1,000 bonus from the league. Players chosen for the second team will collect $500 each.

Rainbow Loop Meet Sunday At Trenary

Fate of the Rainbow league may be decided Sunday afternoon at 2 o'clock at the Trenary town hall.

Managers and players of any teams interested in playing in the league this year are urged to attend the meeting at Trenary Sunday.

At an earlier meeting, only representatives of Marquette, Trenary and Gladstone were present. Escanaba, a member of the league last year, definitely will not be in it this year, having shifted to the Tri-County league. From early indication it appears that several other communities represented in the 12 team league last year will not field teams this year.

Vince Trotter, league secretary-treasurer, said officers would be elected and other organizations matters would be taken up Sunday.

Mulbry Set To Go; Chandler, Too

NEW YORK — (AP)—Baseball Commissioner A. B. (Happy) Chandler is ready to "pack up and go" in a few days now he has assurance that his enemy, secretary-treasurer Walter Mulbry, is quitting too.

Chandler refused to comment on yesterday's report that baseball's executive council has accepted Mulbry's resignation at the commissioner's demand. But it was learned Mulbry will stick to his promise to resign.

The former Kentucky governor and senator, who twice lost his fight for a contract renewal, steadfastly has refused to quit unless Mulbry, his former sidekick, also was relieved of his post. The once-strong friends of 30 years standing, fell out recently.

"Had To Yield"

Chandler handed his Mulbry ultimatum to John Galbreath, president of the Pittsburgh club, who talked with Chandler for five hours Saturday in Cincinnati. Galbreath had been sent by the executive council with orders to "get Chandler to resign immediately."

A member of the council, who requested anonymity, admitted Mulbry has agreed to resign if Mulbry goes too.

"We had to yield to Chandler's wishes," he said. "We felt this thing cannot drag out any longer. It is an impossible situation when you've got a man you don't want running your business for you."

"We are anxious to get this thing cleared out to clear the way for the election of a new commissioner. It's about time the fans began reading and talking about the players instead of the troubles of baseball."

Chandler last month accused Mulbry of "disloyalty" and asked the club owners: "Give me the satisfaction of firing Mulbry before I leave office." At the time the executive council asked Mulbry to "carry on until the commissioner resigns, at the pleasure of the council."

Mulbry, at the time, said "loyalty is a two-way street. It isn't only the underling who should be loyal to his superior. It works both ways."

In Cincinnati yesterday Mulbry said "my going or staying does not appear to be of world shaking. I am agreeable to doing whatever seems to serve the best interests of baseball. This is in contrast to Chandler's attitude."

Hermansville Nine Opens Fund Drive

HERMANVILLE — Setting $250 as their goal, directors of the Hermansville baseball team have opened a drive to finance the club for the Tri-County league.

William Radue, president, and the 16 directors have mapped plans to the season which opens May 13.

Carl Swanson and Art Schultz were placed in charge of solicitations. Richard Langerhausen and Sven Anderson were named vice-presidents and Harold Allen was elected secretary-treasurer.

Glenn Fleetwood, manager, told the directors that between veterans from last year and newcomers, Hermansville will have a "pretty good" aggregation.

However, Fleetwood said Hermansville is looking for a top-notch pitcher.

Spilling The Dope

By Charlie Larson

Bob Dufour—now Pfc. Robert Dufour, AF16342551, First Air Police Sqdn., George Air Force Base, Calif.—is happy that his old team, the Escanaba Bears, has joined the Tri-County league.

Bob writes: "I see in the Daily Press that Escanaba is going to join the Tri-County league. I sure was glad to hear that. I think it was proven last year when we played Bark River, Perronville and Stephenson that it is the better drawing league. Now if we could only get lights, it would be perfect."

Bob said he had visited Cliff Beaudin, Jr., last weekend "and we had quite a time. We watched the ball games between Los Angeles and the Hollywood Stars on TV. Johnny Sundell was pitching for Hollywood. He sure isn't any kind of a pitcher. He can still hit, though. Got three for five including a triple. Cliff certainly likes his TV. Guess he would be pretty lonesome if he didn't have it."

The former hard hitting Bear said he is "not playing much ball out here but I am manager of the AP squadron softball team. We won our first game the other night, beating Maintenance, 5-2. I'm sort of anxious to play our next game. It is against the WAF squadron (girls). All I hope is that we don't get beat!"

Although he didn't say it, we're sure Bob would be delighted to hear from all his local friends. The address above will do the trick.

Very glad to hear from you, Bob. Will get an answer in the mail soon. Thanks for your swell letter, especially the compliments on our sports coverage.

Milwaukee Regains Association Lead

(By The Associated Press)

Rookie Rex Jones, a righthander up from Beaumont, Tex., made his debut with Kansas City a seven-hit winning chore Thursday night, beating Columbus 6-0. The win sent the Blues into a second-place tie with Toledo in the American association leadership tug-o-war.

Milwaukee regained the lead by a 1½ game edge by downing Toledo 95 in a 10-inning series finale. The Brewers exploded for four runs in the 10th to cap a wild contest in which 35 players saw action.

Milwaukee bagged 18 hits, including a four-ply sock by Al Unser, while four Brewer pitchers yielded 10 to the Hens, including four doubles. Five Hen hurlers were used, the last being Dick Marlowe who was nicked for three blows and two walks during the four-gun blast.

Louisville tripped Minneapolis 5-4.

In an exhibition game at Indianapolis the Cleveland Indians romped over their farm club 7-1.

Halp! Halp! Your Aid Is Needed

Calling all softball enthusiasts!

There'll be a "bee" Saturday afternoon at Memorial field to prepare the field for the coming softball season.

Rev. A. A. Schabow, association president, has issued a call for volunteers to help with major surgery on the field. The backstop will be fixed, dugouts changed, the announcer's booth will be moved and there will be a general cleanup.

"This is a softball players' project and we need all the help we can get," said Rev. Schabow. "We'll have plenty of work for everyone."

Powers Nine Trips Alpha In Opener

POWERS — The Powers high school baseball team had its hitting togs on yesterday and took advantage of five Alpha errors to open the season with an easy 10-4 victory at the local diamond.

Alpha got one run in the first inning but Powers came back with two in its half, added three in the second and went on to win easily. Alpha threatened in the sixth with three runs but Bob Lawrence, Powers hurler, choked off the rally before much damage was done.

Lawrence was wild, allowing nine walks, but struck out 11. His foe, Bob Clima, walked six and struck out four. Powers got 12 hits and Alpha nine.

Dave Lawrence, Powers third sacker, got two singles and a double. Second basemen John Henderson got two single and Short Stop Don Bellefeuille got two doubles. Stankewicz and B. Ball led Alpha with two hits each.

Powers plays at Channing Monday and entertains Vulcan next Thursday.

Line score:

Powers 230 212 x—10 12 1
Alpha 100 003 0—4 9 5

B. Lawrence and Perket, Clima and Ball.

Movies Will Be Shown Tuesday

Adult Education Course Announced

Announcement of the third session of movies for the adult education program has been issued by Vernon Ihlenfeldt, supervisor in charge of Adult education here in Escanaba.

The third set of movies will be run Tuesday, May 1, at 7:30 p. m., at the junior high school auditorium and will be a complete lesson on the "United Nations."

Each film shown will set up questions to be discussed and will be explained directly after the film so that the audience may participate.

The first film, "We The People" will give introductory scenes which will review the basic needs of the world's people; security, justice, welfare and human rights. A description of the United Nations organization and the functions of its General Assembly are visually portrayed.

These functions consist of: 1. General Assembly; 2. The Security Council; 3. Economic and Social Council; 4. The Trusteeship Council; 5. An International Court of Justice; 6. The Secretariat.

The second film will be "Battle for Bread." Half the people of the world are starving—not starving to death—starving. This is the United Nations' report on how the food and agriculture organization is beginning to solve the tremendous problem of doubling the world's food output.

The third portion of the program will be a film strip on "Structure for Peace, and How the United Nations Works."

Parents of Daughter

SCHAFER—Mr. and Mrs. Leo Neubauer of Chicago are the parents of a daughter born Sunday, April 15, in Chicago. The child weighed 8 pounds, 2 ounces and her name is Mary Christine. Mrs. Neubauer is the former Marie DeLoughary, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Harold DeLoughary.

Personals

Mr. and Mrs. Stanley McInnis spent the weekend visiting relatives in Ishpeming at the Frank Marra home.

Mr. and Mrs. Pat Carey and sons of Marquette visited at the Gauthier home Saturday.

Mrs. Omer Tanguay is visiting with her sister in Menominee. Vernon Dubrock left Monday for Chicago where he will be employed.

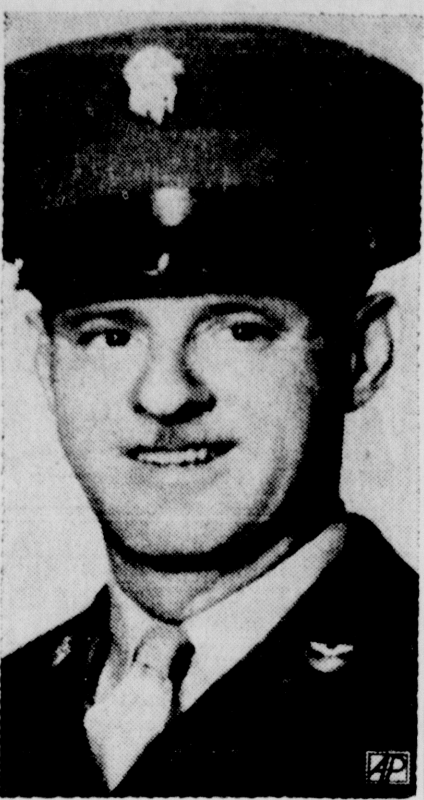

Mr. and Mrs. Ed Gagnais visited in Rapid River Sunday at the Fred Cavill home.

Mrs. George DeLoughary and son George, Jr., went to Chicago over the weekend. Mrs. DeLoughary will remain there indefinitely.

Cite Cancer Drive Progress In City

Delta county's campaign to raise $3,000 to fight cancer is making progress in the city of Escanaba, it was announced today by Atty. William E. Anderson, city chairman.

The house-to-house solicitation is continuing, although some zones have been completed with satisfactory results, it was reported.

Mrs. Ray H. DeGrand has completed the canvass of Zone 14 without assistance. This is area at the extreme west end of Ludington street west of 23rd street.

Mrs. Joseph Jacke, captain for Zone 13 and 15, has also completed solicitation, doubling last year's contribution from the people in her area.

The two zones include the Old State Road, Willow Road and Old Jaeger Road section of the city. Mrs. Jacke was assisted by Mrs. Ralph Erickson and Mrs. Chet Morton.

During a summer season, an average oak tree evaporates 28,000 gallons of water.

Mrs. Harold DeLoughary returned following a three week visit there with her daughter, Mrs. Leo Neubauer.

State Conservation Business Badly In Need Of New Boss

By JAMES A. O. CROWE

LANSING—(P)—Little more than a month after the death of Conservation Director P. J. Hoffmaster, the conservation department has fallen to the lowest point in morale in many years.

The course indicated is for the conservation commission to appoint a new, strong director before another day goes by. He should be a man who can quickly pull the department back together and restore the confidence of the valuable staff and field men.

The Michigan department has some of the top authorities on game and fish management, and it is hard enough under normal circumstances to hold them.

All Is Confusion

But with the department leaderless and the commission wallowing in indecision, the temptation for staff members to move to a more secure position is increased.

The confusion has brought a halt to all new plans and ideas for future progress. No one is going to stick his neck out very far when he doesn't know what the department's policies are going to be.

When Hoffmaster died unexpectedly of heart disease March 19, the commission appointed Deputy Director S. G. Fontanna in temporary charge of the department.

They didn't even give him the title of acting director, and the understanding was he was to act as director only when necessary, for instance in the signing of deeds and land leases in the name of the department.

Appointments Awaited

The official reason for the commission's doing no more was that the commissioners wanted to await the appointment of two new commissioners due April 1 before making any move they couldn't back out of.

However, there was opposition on the commission to Fontanna as permanent director and that probably had considerable bearing on the commission's action.

Governor Williams then moved into the picture and asked the commission to appoint a director, preferably from within the department. He indicated he was having trouble finding replacements for or convincing himself to reappoint chairman Joseph P. Rahilly of Newberry and Commissioner Donald B. McLouth of Detroit, whose terms have expired.

Ore Centennial Plans Outlined

Iron River Festival To Be July 1 To 7

IRON RIVER—Iron Ore centennial plans have reached the stage where it will cost some $35,000 to put on the show, greatest ever attempted in the Stambaugh-Iron-River district. Dr. Herman Simon, executive director, advised the board of directors at a meeting at Mertins cafe.

Dr. Simon, moved into the new centennial headquarters in the Iron River National bank building, where Mrs. Lawrence Ross, of Stambaugh, will be stenographer and general clerk.

Headquarters soon will send out a tentative program for the celebration to be held July 1-7, with festivities and programs to be held every afternoon and evening. The program is being sent to prospective donors to the centennial.

The Japanese motion picture screen bans dancing, kissing, and drinking.

Rural School Board Members Will Meet

The Delta county Rural School Board Members association will meet at 8 o'clock tonight in Rock High school to discuss new legislation affecting education. Walter Van de Weghe is president of the association. The Delta County School Area Study committee, headed by Dr. William C. Harrison, also will attend the meeting.

Rahilly reportedly has refused to accept reappointment if McLouth, a Republican, is not reappointed. Last week, the commission met, and one group, headed by Rahilly, was ready to appoint D. J. Currie, regional supervisor in the Upper Peninsula, to the directorship.

Fontanna Leaves July 1

Opposition developed, however, on the grounds that Currie might be too subservient to Rahilly, so no action was taken. In fact, it looks like a deadlock is developing which might not be broken unless the governor appoints at least one entirely new commissioner.

And if the reports are correct, if he doesn't reappoint McLouth, he will have to appoint a second new commissioner to replace Rahilly.

This impasse was demoralizing enough to what was the nation's leading conservation department. Then came this week the announcement that Fontanna, the only hand on the tiller, was quitting. He will leave July 1 to become dean of the University of Michigan school of natural resources.

Someone has to take a hand immediately, and a lot of sportsmen and other lovers of the outdoors are looking to Governor Williams to do just that.

It appears that the department will never settle down until a new director is named and that a new director will never be named until the governor reappoints the two old commissioners or names two new ones.

Why not give your Bride a Break?

Let's see what it means to own a ROADMASTER. It means, first of all, that you're a shrewd judge of fine manufacture. Nowhere will you find a mechanism more skilfully fitted part to part with scrupulous precision—engineered to stricter standards of fine-car quality—than the deep-framed and durable ROADMASTER chassis.

It means, also, that you possess keen appreciation of everything that makes for unsurpassed performance.

For there's more to this dazzling beauty than its thrilling take-off. There's the surplus of power that you need to make you the master of busy traffic or open road—plus the velvet magic of Dynaflo Drive (at no extra cost, mind you).

There's the level-going luxury of ample roadweight buoyantly balanced on coil springs on every wheel—and the security of brakes specifically engineered for firm control of this great-powered beauty.

But there's still another distinction to being a ROADMASTER owner.

It marks you as one who buys wisely and well. Size for size, pound for pound, feature for feature, few cars can even approach what your dollars will buy in this finest of Buicks.

There's much more to be discovered by a visit to any Buick dealer's showroom.

There's the sumptuous softness of cushions, the custom excellence of fabrics and interior trim, the grace and charm of every line and contour.

So if you've dreamed of sometime owning a car superbly fine, there's no time like the present—and no car like ROADMASTER for making dreams come true.

Equipment, accessories, trim and models are subject to change without notice.
